Having completed my LLM (Honours) in Islamic banking, and PhD in Islamic Finance from University of Western Sydney Law School, Australia with High Distinction I have started teaching at Hamdan Bin Mohammed e-University (HBMeU), Dubai, UAE in April 2010. Prior to my joining HBMeU I taught two years in a university in Bangladesh and have worked ten years as a College teacher in Sydney. I have twenty six years experience as an educator, multi lingual translator, executive director, Shari`ah advisor, community leader, journal editor, paper reviewer, subject matter expert, and course contents and syllabi developer. Specialised in the laws of Islamic banking & finance and Islamic jurisprudence I have undertaken several case studies in Islamic banks and institutions offering Islamic financial services and analysed critically some of the Islamic financial products practiced by modern Islamic financial institutions, from Shari`ah perspectives. I have been chairing the Shari`ah Supervisory Board of Islamic Cooperative Finance Australia since 1998 serving as the founding editor of the International Journal of Excellence in Islamic Banking and Finance since 2010. I am the author of three books (published in USA and Germany), two chapters in edited books (IRTI and Wiley), and have published dozens of refereed journal articles. I have peer reviewed a significant number of journal and conference articles on different areas of my research interest. I sit in the international editorial advisory and review boards of thirteen top class world journals. I have spoken on Islamic banking and finance in every continent except South America! Some of the cities where I have spoken include Cambridge, Sydney, Melbourne, Dubai, Abu Dhabi, Langkawi, Kuala Lumpur, Dhaka, Ilorin, Khartoum, Dublin, and Famagusta.
